Built a century ago, Billy’s Tap Room in Ormond Beach to reopen this fall

For developer Bill Jones, the project goes beyond a restaurant’s reopening. It’s about bringing back a piece of Ormond history.

JARLEENE ALMENAS
MANAGING EDITOR

One of Ormond Beach’s oldest restaurants is en route to a historic comeback later this fall — at least, that’s what local developer Bill Jones has been working on for the past three years.

In 2022, Jones purchased Billy’s Tap Room & Grill, located at 58 E. Granada Blvd., for $1.85 million from restaurateurs Doug and Lillian Rand, who had run the restaurant for 12 years. For Jones, restoring historic properties in Ormond Beach’s downtown has become a labor of love over the past few decades, he said. In his words, if there’s a historic building that can be restored ...

“I’m your huckleberry,” Jones said. “I’m the guy who’s going to do it.”

So Jones set his sights on Billy’s Tap Room, and the challenges that came with restoring a building constructed in 1920, with its 100-year-old iron pipes and cloth-insulated wiring.

“Honest to God, it was a demolition,” Jones said. “It really would have been cheaper to demolish it and build it back, but then it wouldn’t have been Billy’s. That’s my own stubbornness and my own feeling toward the place.”

You can reproduce anything — kind of, Jones added.

“But it never has the spirits,” he said. “It never has the ghosts. It doesn’t have the tales — doesn’t have that aura or feeling that you would have in a real, unique, old building. So therefore, I was glad to get my hands on it — because it wasn’t cheap, but it was well worth everything I did to it.”

Every square inch of Billy’s Tap Room, with cardboard sheets on its windows hiding the work inside, has been scrutinized during the course of the last three years, Jones said.

He’s asked contractors to redo work because it didn’t just need to meet his expectations; the work needed to honor the community as well.

“People are expecting something from Billy’s that’s going to go far beyond the opening of a new restaurant,” Jones said. “They want their memories back.”

BILLY’S STORY

William “Billy” MacDonald, the founder of Billy’s Tap Room, came to Ormond Beach in 1922 after Hotel Ormond’s managers invited him to run their tea room, according to the Ormond Beach Historical Society. At the time, MacDonald was serving as the lounge manager at the Astor and Plaza Hotels in New York City, and relocated south for the job.

Four years later, he purchased a building on East Granada Boulevard that once housed the Ormond Pharmacy and had an upstairs residence, where he then lived with his wife, Elizabeth. MacDonald opened a combination drug store, soda fountain and restaurant in the building.

MacDonald then reshaped the property, unifying it with the Tudor Revival design that still stands today and is synonymous with Billy’s Tap Room, as well as adding a one-story wing to the east along Halifax Avenue.

In the early days of his business, MacDonald sold fruit, jellies, newspapers, sandwiches and gifts, and the Historical Society states that, during Prohibition, “whispers of homemade beer and slot machines circulated, with patrons slipping through swinging doors unlocked by a button hidden behind the bar.”

By the mid-1930s, the gift shop had been turned into a full restaurant.

“By 1937, with the end of Prohibition, the place was a true pub serving draft beer for a nickel and Manhattans for a quarter,” recalled Frank MacDonald, Billy’s eldest son, in the article by the Historical Society.

In 1939, the MacDonald family bought a nearby home — now known as the MacDonald House, which serves as the Historical Society’s headquarters — for $3,900.

Frank and Billy Jr. MacDonald ran Billy’s Tap Room until they retired, in 1985. It was then run by the Young family, of New Jersey, for a short period, followed by Kathy Jones and then Monk Noell, who ran the restaurant for 17 years.

In 2006, the restaurant was purchased by Maria Azabad-Reisch, of Holland. In 2011, Billy’s Tap Room was purchased by the Rands.

THE WEIGHT OF HISTORY

Once reopened, Billy’s Tap Room will be run by restaurateur Joe Oliva, who opened Alexander’s on the west side of downtown last year, another of Jones’ historic restorations.

“He’s doing a sterling, sterling job of [running Alexander’s], and he’s the only person that has the expertise, the knowledge and experience to really pull this off,” Jones said.

Oliva said he feels very lucky to have the opportunity.

“Because of Bill, I have the two most iconic restaurants on the strip now, between Alexander’s and Billy’s,” he said. “We’re just going to try and keep the things that everybody loved about Billy’s and make sure that when they come in, it gives them a little bit of nostalgia to see some of the old dishes still on the menu.”

And Oliva has about 60 years’ worth of menus to choose items for the reopening.

One of the questions Jones said he gets asked the most — aside from the opening date — is whether they’re bringing back the relish tray, which he said contained baby corn, gherkins, two olives and a radish.

The answer is yes, they are bringing it back.

“We’re going to stay as true as we can to this building — and to this history,” Jones said.

As they worked on restoring the restaurant, Jones and his team talked to customers who remembered the hey-days, family members, and the Ormond Beach Historical Society.

“We did everything but have a seance, to be honest with you,” Jones joked.

Restoring Billy’s Tap Room is Jones’ first foray into saving historic properties on the east side of the bridge. And he admitted — it’s a project that makes him slightly nervous.

“Only because I feel there’s a lot of history rested on my shoulders with this building,” Jones said. “Everybody’s got their [memories]. Ever since they held their mother’s hand and came into the place 50 years ago, they’ve got ideas of what it should be, and I hope — I really hope — I can hit and make them happy. That’s what I’m going for.”

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Praise for Ormond budget process

Dear Editor:
On Sept. 17, the Ormond Beach City Commission unanimously approved a 5.3% property tax increase. Opposing groups on both sides expressed unhappiness, those supporting a higher tax increase and those favoring a zero tax increase.

Commissioner Travis Sargent opened the final budget hearing with a proposal to adopt a zero tax rate increase, to preempt Florida DOGE from making arbitrary budget reductions. Taxpayer relief would also anticipate growing economic storm clouds in a city where many seniors own and maintain homes on fixed incomes.

Florida Sunshine Law precluded any advance warning to his surprised colleagues, so Commissioner Sargent presented a smorgasbord of budget-cutting items to consider. In a difficult eleventh hour public debate, they rejected most and accepted some, voting unanimous consent to a millage rate significantly lower than the one agreed to in the first budget hearing.

The original 10% proposed tax rate increase ended up being reduced to 5%, a compromise where no one got everything they wanted. The city manager, city attorney, and our world-class chief financial officer guided the elected officials through the budgetary minefield.

For his initiative, Commissioner Sargent has been vilified. Ormond Beach Chamber Chairman Eric Palacios called him a “disgrace” for a last minute proposal in a hearing he said “should have been procedural.” But if the second hearing is supposed to rubber-stamp the first, then why have it? Other citizens called Sargent’s efforts “grandstanding” and “politics.” Sargent knew he would be taking hits from all sides, risking political capital. But Marine Corps veterans are trained to make personal sacrifice for the common good.

All four commissioners performed responsibly under intense pressure. They arrived at the right number, balancing needed services with the required taxes. They honored their oaths, after a widely distributed anti-tax mailer publicly labeled them by name as “arrogant, clueless, out of touch pickpockets.” Commissioners Briley, Deaton, and Sargent grew up in Ormond Beach.

Deputy Mayor Tolland, a nurse, raised seven children here while volunteering countless hours to the community. Dedicated commissioners have faced unprecedented, complex issues.

The budget process witnessed active citizen engagement. The system worked.

The approved tax rate is the lowest in Volusia County. Ormond Beach is a bargain paradise: two rivers, ocean, beach, the most beautiful homes on the planet. Responsive city governments have maintained the city’s historic, aesthetic, and environmental character over the decades in a unique community of people.

Kirk’s view of Christianity is not consistent with country’s values

Dear Editor:
In a letter to the editor of the Observer, authored by the Palm Coast mayor’s wife, and in reverence to Charlie Kirk, she portrayed an individual and his beliefs that others view very differently and find troubling. The letter was a church-like eulogy with a biblical age-old “good versus evil” refrain, complete with Bible verses.

It put forth in a sermon-like tone that Charlie was waging a spiritual battle “against the rulers of darkness.” To her, there was some evil, some “spiritual hosts of wickedness,” some enemy, holding some undefined influence lurking among us that Charlie was standing against. She further applauded him for awakening students he lectured as “to what was being done to their minds” and contended as “Christians” we all should become like him.

It was pretty easy to surmise that the letter was as much a veiled political statement as it was religious — the Left as the enemy and the Right as the righteous. After all, Charlie Kirk stated that “Democrats stand for everything that God hates” and the mayor’s wife said “look to Charlie,” who spoke the truth.

Well, Charlie was for sure a Christian, but not at all the kind consistent with our country’s historical values. His was a dogmatic distorted view of Christianity. He was intolerant of non-Christians and advocated a type of radical spiritual warfare that included a reclaiming of America for Christ. He embraced and promoted the extremist ideology called the “Seven Mountain Mandate” that holds that Christians should commandeer and reclaim all aspects of society.

In Charlie’s world, government, education, businesses, family, the media, arts and entertainment, and religion would all be required to relinquish freedom and independence in order to establish the kingdom of his chosen deity on Earth. This Christian “mandate” would also ensure the placement of “righteous” followers in leadership roles to ensure our nation’s culture, laws, values and overall way of life conforms to this Christian Nationalist oppressive dogma and intolerant worldview.

If forcing America to bow down to a one and only Christian nationalistic ideology and indoctrinating students to follow that disturbing, authoritarian and divisive dogma is the mayor’s wife’s idea of what this country stands for, we respect her right and Charlie Kirk’s right to express that stance, but should firmly and forever reject it as dangerous and wholly un-American.

Many of us are ‘Not Charlie’

Dear Editor:
There has been local press coverage about the death of controversial podcaster and youth influencer, Charlie Kirk that included a letter titled “We Are Charlie Kirk” published by the Observer. Also published were pictures and comments expressing deep admiration of Kirk by area public officials at his recent vigil that also had a “We Are Charlie” theme with chants.

But, what we haven’t seen thus far is a balanced view of opinions and a differing perspective from those who don’t identify with Charlie. Here are some of his most controversial and concerning quotes and leanings on a few topics that support why many of us are “Not Charlie:”

On the topic of Black Americans, Kirk stated “We made a huge mistake when we passed the Civil Rights Act in the 1960s.” He referred to Martin Luther King Jr. as “awful” and “not a good person.” He claimed it’s “Happening all the time in urban America, prowling Blacks go around for fun to target white people, that’s a fact.” He also claimed that Black people were “better” in the 1940s, stating they “committed less crimes” then. He declared that, “If I see a Black pilot, I’m going to be like, boy, I hope he’s qualified.”

Further, in the context of an affirmative action discussion implying certain prominent Black women unfairly derived benefit from affirmative action initiatives, he made this comment, “... Yeah, we know. You do not have the brain processing power to otherwise be taken really seriously. You had to go steal a white person’s slot.”

As for gun violence, Kirk said “I think it’s worth it to have a cost of, unfortunately, some gun deaths every single year, so that we can have the Second Amendment to protect our other God-given rights. That is a prudent deal. It is rational.”

Regarding his view of the gay community, he referenced a Bible verse supporting the execution of homosexuals as “God’s perfect law when it comes to sexual matters.”

His position on church, government and society included “there is no separation of church and state. It’s a fabrication, it’s fiction, it’s not in the constitution. It’s made up by secular humanists.” He leaned towards the core ideas of the “Seven Mountain Mandate” that calls for the takeover of and dominion over every aspect of society by Christian ideology, noting that “finally we have a president who understands the seven mountains of cultural influence.” And in harsh accusatory spiritual terms he proclaimed that Democrats “stand for everything God hates.”

For a lot of us, it’s self-evident that Charlie Kirk’s preferred view of our country fits the very troubling and not praiseworthy definition of White Christian Nationalism.

Editor’s Note: Charlie Kirk’s comment about questioning the qualifications of Black pilots is missing some context. In the interview in which he said it, Kirk also made the point that he felt DEI invited those kinds of questions, and that’s why he opposed DEI — because it “invites unwholesome thinking.” Questioning someone because of their race “is not who I am,” Kirk said.

Kirk voiced harmful rhetoric

Dear Editor:
In response to and in rebuttal to the letter to the editor with high praise and admiration for Charlie Kirk authored by the vice chairman of the Volusia County Republican Party, there is a vastly different perspective of Charlie Kirk shared by many. The abhorrent nature of his death is of course not in dispute, and Kirk’s fundamental right to hold and express his views isn’t either. But to suggest his values and views are anything but antithetical to what this country should and does stand for is just plain wrongheaded.

There is a very reasonable basis, supported by Kirk’s own quotes, to conclude he was promoting ideas rooted in white supremacy and Christian Nationalism. And he lectured that ideology and divisiveness to college campus crowds of young followers. Kirk was, and again supported by his own troubling comments, not only racist, but was xenophobic, homophobic and misogynistic. He also trafficked in the idea that Christianity has a directive to take total control of our society. Yes, a mandate and yes, full control... and with Christian leaders at the helm of America in God’s new kingdom.

It is easy to research and substantiate Charlie Kirk’s disturbing philosophy because most were videoed and/or recorded. Simply type Charlie Kirk along with the descriptive bigoted terms referenced above into a search engine, and sure enough, there it is. And as such, it is both befuddling and concerning that the letter’s author and the political party he represents apparently hasn’t done so. Or even worse and more disturbing, maybe they actually have.

CORRECTIONS

A story on page 8A of the Sept. 18 edition titled ‘Flagler County renews one-year contract with Humane Society’ incorrectly said one Flagler County Commissioner will serve on the FHS board. Instead, two FHS Board members will liase with the Flagler Commission.

Charlie Kirk is heading towards martyrdom in conservative circles. The Republican Party and Charlie’s fans are hitching their cart to a Trojan horse, disguised as American values, but in reality, is loaded with hateful rhetoric. And that it is something America should never embrace.
